Looking back upon 80 years of my life,
it can be said, in a word, to be a life of struggle devoted to the people as their son.

I embarked on the road of revolution with the resolution to sacrifice my life for the country and the people, and since then what dominated my heart so far was always love for the people.

Kim Il Sung

I am so happy when I did something for the people.

My happiness and joy are in those of the people.

It is my firm will and resolution to give them the best of all.

President Kim Il Sung and Chairman Kim Jong Il are benevolent fathers of people who devoted to them all their lives, regarding “The people are my God” as their maxim.

Kim Il Sung, born in a straw-thatched house as son of the people, embarked on the road of revolution in his early years to save the destiny of the country and nation writhing in the grief of statelessness.

He respected the people as his teacher, went among them to help them shape their destiny and be the main force of the revolution, thereby putting an end to the distress-torn history of the nation stained with flunkeyism, dogmatism and fractional strife and ushering in a people-centred era.

As he was such a great man who would make the impossible possible if it was the people’s wish, the first democratic reform he enforced after liberating the country was the agrarian reform which was the centuries-old desire of the peasants who wished to cultivate their own land and the government he built was the people’s power with which to build a new society where the working people are the masters.

As he was such a kindhearted man who would take the people’s pain as his own, he enforced the universal free medical service that the whole world envy so much during the grim Fatherland Liberation War when the destiny of the country was at stake.

Saying that the children are the “king” of the country, he saw to it that schools and children’s palaces were built throughout the country and enforced the universal compulsory education system, so that children could play and learn to their heart’s content. And he ensured that modern houses were provided to working people free of charge. He built up the advantageous socialist system centred on the people in which everything serves them. All these are the noble fruition of his love for people.

Kim Il Sung and Kim Jong Il continued to visit factories, farms and fishing villages and listened carefully to what the people say to formulate policies. Their images are deeply cherished in the hearts of the people as the sun.

Kim Jong Il, who inherited the noble personalities and virtue of the President, firmly safeguarded the people-centred socialist system, working day and night on the running train in the trying period of Arduous March. Socialist fairylands ringing with songs of happiness were built up everywhere he went and the whole country turned into the people’s paradise.

He enhanced the state power to the highest level for the first time in the national history, thereby providing the people with a precious foundation for stepping up the building of a thriving nation.

Kim Il Sung and Kim Jong Il had sent a huge sum of educational aid fund and stipends to the General Association of Korean Residents in Japan (Chongryon) every year and lots of foodstuffs and aid materials to the south Korean flood victims, out of warm love and magnanimity for the nation. They had worked devotedly for national reunification, leading the whole nation to reconciliation, cooperation and reunification.

They were elder statesmen who propounded the great Juche idea for the first time in history and enriched it to illuminate the road for shaping the destiny of humankind and render distinguished services for the cause of global independence.

Under the leadership of Kim Il Sung, the Korean people could become dignified masters of an independent sovereign state, and under the guidance of Kim Jong Il, the DPRK could become a powerful country nobody dared to attack.

As they witness harsh realities in which small countries are trampled down ruthlessly, the Korean people, blessed with great leaders through generations, have keenly realized the greatness of their leaders and the pride of worthwhile life. So they are fully determined to hold the great leaders in high esteem for all ages.

All the Korean people, the descendants of Kim Il Sung and soldiers and disciples of Kim Jong Il, will keep deep in their hearts the firm belief that the great leaders will always be with them and remain faithful to the leadership of supreme leader Kim Jong Un who gives top priority to the interests of the people and carries forward the history of love for people of the great leaders.
