Renovated Samjiyon City People's Hospital

Hospital building built in 1961

Samjiyon County People's Hospital built as a general hospital in 1975

A new hospital was built in the city of Samjiyon, Ryanggang Province, Democratic People's Republic of Korea, and opened to the public in October Juche 109 (2020).

Furnished with all modern medical equipment at its Internal, Surgical, Pediatric, Obstetrical and Gynaecological and all other departments and put on a high level of IT basis, the hospital has an access to the telemedicine system. It has all the components, including the well-conditioned in-patient ward, rehabilitation rooms, kids' playing area and even an indoor park.

It provides medical service not only to the local people but also to the people from other parts of the country, who visit Mt Paektu.

Universal Free Medicare System

Free medical care is a lawful right for all the people of the DPRK.

The state enforced the free medicare system at its expense in January Juche 42 (1953), when the war to defend its sovereignty and independence against the armed aggression by the imperialist forces (June 1950-July 1953) was at its height.

As the material and technical foundations of the public health sector further developed with the vigorous promotion of socialist construction, this system developed into a complete and universal free medicare system in Juche 49 (1960).

Koryo Medicine

Koryo medicine is the traditional medicine of the Korean nation.

Tonguibogam, crystallization of the successes of Koryo medicine achieved until the 16th century

This medicine has contributed to preventing and treating various diseases by means of biological resources abundant in the country and acupuncture, moxibustion, massage and other unique therapies. Having developed to suit the living customs of the Korean people and their physical constitution, it has characteristics distinguishable from the traditional medicine of the East Asian countries in terms of theory and therapy.

Today it is subdivided into branches of internal medicine, pediatrics, obstetrics and gynaecology, acupuncture, epidemiology, otorhinolaryngology, ophthalmology, diagnostics, pharmacology, tonics and so on.

District Doctor System

In the DPRK the district doctor system has been in force since the 1960s. The system, aimed at preventing and treating diseases by doctors in charge of a certain residential area, has further developed as a medical service network was established, which covers not only the capital city, provinces, counties and ri (dong)—the terminal administrative units—but also factories and other enterprises, and the number of medical workers increased.

The doctors go to the households and workplaces under their charge and provide various kinds of medical service, like arranging the hygienic improvement of the working and living environment and conditions and taking measures for preventing and treating diseases.

Part of the city of Samjiyon

The city under Paektu, the sacred mountain of the Korean revolution, is a historic place, which bears the imprints of the revolutionary struggle waged by President Kim Il Sung in the first half of the last century to liberate his country from the Japanese military occupation and where Chairman Kim Jong Il was born.

As a reflection of the wish of all the Korean people to add eternal brilliance to the exploits of the peerlessly great men, it was turned into a model cultured mountain city in Juche 108 (2019).
